INDIAN HISTORY ALONG THE PENOBSCOT

The story of the Indians in the state of Maine is ever interesting. Especially is that of the region of the Penobscot Valley. This race of men is the subject of pity as well as of hatred, hated for their cruelty, and pitied for their misfortune at the hands of their more civilized fellows, the Anglo Saxons.

We of a later day can look upon this race in a spirit of greater fairness than could our ancestors whose view of the redman was obscured by his late acts of rapine and plunder. As we read history let us remember that they were struggling to retain their own domain, to defend their "Fatherland" against the acts of the aggressive pale face whose deeds of power we delight to honor.

TRIBES OF THE PENOBSCOT

In our brief sketch we cannot attempt to trace in full the descent of the Indian tribes of this region. It is unnecessary. We will begin by stating that the Indians of the state of Maine generally were divided into the following tribes: The Sokokis, of the Saco river region; the Amasagunticooks or Abenakis, of the Androscoggin and lower Kennebec region, the Canibas, of the Norridgewock region; and the Warenocks of the eastern part of Maine as now known. Of these the latter are to us most interesting. Another almost synonymous name for this tribe is the Etchemin tribe. This tribe however included the Indians to the extreme headwaters of the Penobscot and the St. John River. This tribe is usually divided into three divisions, viz: those on the St. John; those of the Passamaquoddy; and the Tarratines of the Penobscot, of whom we are most concerned. It is undoubtedly true that this tribe is the ancestor of the present remnant known as the Penobscot tribe. This tribe claimed dominion over the entire Penobscot Valley from the headwaters to the sea.

Concerning these Indians we here quote Mr. Williamson as follows: "They were a numerous, powerful and warlike people, more hardy and brave than their western enemies, whom they often plundered and killed, and according to Hubbard and Price, kept the Sycamores between the Piscataqua and the Mistic in perpetual fear. After the conquests and glory achieved in their battles with the Babshaba and his allies, they were not, like their enemies, wasted by disease and famine. They retained their valor, animated by success and strengthened by the early use and supply of fire-arms, with which they were furnished by the French. The Tarratines ever manifested the greatest satisfaction in their intercourse with the French. No fortifications upon the peninsula of Major Biguyduce, or buildings in the vicinity, excited either fear or jealousy in them for no rising plantations of the French threatened them with the loss of their lands or privileges. A barter of their furs for guns, ammunition and trinkets was managed with a freedom and a directness which won and secured their attachments. Their companionable manners and volatile turn made the bonds strong and lasting. The Tarratines have probably at different periods shifted the situation of their principal village. At the mouth of the Kenduskeag they had a common resting place when the white people first settled in that vicinity —a place to which they were from habit strongly attached. Here the mouldering relics of human bodies, also flint spears, stone implements of labor, and Indians paint dust have been accidentally disinterred after a burial of an unknown period of time. The Tarratines were neutral in the war of the Revolution. In return Massachusetts, of which this region was a part at that time, protected them and prohibited all trespass upon their lands six miles in width on each side of the Penobscot, from the Head of Tide upwards. The State from time to time bought large tracts of land from them till their territory was greatly diminished in size. These Indians when they were first seen by the whites dwelt on both sides of the river and in conjunction with the other tribes roamed the whole of the state of Maine to the westward of this region. That they wandered far from their Penobscot home is evident. One historian asserts that the chief Samoset who met the English at Plymouth with the words "Welcome Englishmen" in their own tongue was a Tarratine, and came from the Island of Monhegan.

WARS OF THE TARRATINES

The Indian seemed to be fated to be the opponent of the Englishman; in religion, and personal make up the Englishman was at a very serious disadvantage as compared with the Frenchman, with his vivacious ways, and his attractive and impressive religious services. It is probable that the most of the English had serious intentions and an honest purpose to deal justly with the redman. Their charters called for religious training, forbade the sale of liquors to them and in everyway enjoined their training in the channels of civilization. But the Frenchmen did all in his power to engender the spirit of animosity which was early started in the breast of the savage. Only one result could possibly be and that was war. But though the Indians were gradually drifting to hostilities they were hurled headlong into an open conflict by Weymouth's infamous seizure of five of their tribe in 1805. 1631 or 1632 there was an outbreak between the Tarratines and their rivals but the conflict was not long prolonged nor bloody. The great war with the Mohawks about 1663 greatly discomforted the Tarratines, their dreaded enemies following them even to the banks of the Penobscot, burning their dwellings, and doing great harm in accordance with Indian warfare. Soon Small Pox devastated the tribe till it was almost exterminated.

No further action in warfare was participated in by these Indians till the coming of Maj. Church in 1694, who laid waste their fields and killed several of the natives. In 1772 Lovewell's War opened and lasted three years. The war was thus named for Capt. Lovewell of Dunstable, the hero of the battle of Pequaket. The warfare was carried to the Penobscot Valley, and began at the arrival of Col. Thomas Westbrook in 1723. This exepedition was made up of two hundred thirty. They scurried the coast of Mt. Desert in whaling boats and small vessels, and then proceeded up the Penobscot, anchoring at Marsh Island, it is stated, on March 4 of that year. Here they left their boats and began five days march through the forests near the river. At the Old Indian Fort which they found deserted the company destroyed everything of value. It is stated that this fort was situated in Orono about six miles above Kenduskeag. After the destruction of the buildings about the Fort the whites returned. About two years later when the Tarratines had rebuilt the village, Capt. Joseph Heath with his company crossed the country and attacked the village, laying it in ashes. No Indians were found. The village was never rebuilt, Oldtown being the place finally settled upon as their future abode. In October 1723 a vessel landing at Mt. Desert, Capt. Cogswell commanding, was attacked by the Indians, the whole crew being captured. The wars being over the Indians returned to their usual customs, hunting and fishing. Gradually, by treaty and by other courses the English came into possession of the lands along the Penobscot. The Indians were greatly cheated in these deals, but managed to retain possession of certain tracts, and to this day have control of a large number of Islands in the Penobscot. They also have a large sum in the hands of the state which is holden as a perpetual fund for their support on which the state pays interest annually. In all the Indian tribe receives not far from $8000 per year from different sources. The treatment of these Indians on the Penobscot by the state of Maine is in marked contrast with that of Massachusetts when this whole region was a part of that commonwealth. Everything of practical value to them is done for their their protection and benefit.

EARLY SETTLEMENTS

As near as we can learn this township was a part of the original grant to Bowdoin College. The first clearings were made by Messrs. Robert Low, Jr. and Robert Herring, Jr., on two lots near Low's bridge and there were raised in 1805 the first crops of corn ever raised in town. In 1806 they moved their families here, Robert Low being the first to bring a family here. In Sept. of this year Robert Herring's daughter, Esther, was born. This was the first white child born in town. Later in the same year Robert Low's daughter, Polly, was born. During this same year several openings were made in town. Among these were Nathaniel, John and Isaac Bennett, but none stayed through the winter except Low and Herring and three boys, the sons of the Bennetts, who were left here to care for the cow which Capt. J. Bennett had led through from Massachusetts behind his ox team. Later came John Everton and in 1808 Deacon R. Herring brought in his family. From this time religious meetings were held each Sunday.

Many others came in until, in 1810, the census showed 65 inhabitants. Capt. John Bennett, as has been stated, was the first to bring a team and cow into town, and was also the first to put up a frame building, which was a barn.

The first house in town was built by Barker. This was a log house and stood near the bridge in the village. Mr. Low, the first settler, requires special mention as he was very prominent in town affairs. He was well educated for the time and a very industrious man. He was very prominent in educational lines, teaching the first term of school ever kept in a school house in the town. He lived and died on the lot he first selected which is where Joseph Dearing now lives as near as we can learn.

Mr. Low had at least six children, Polly, Isaac, Judith, Plummer, Sherman, Sylvina. Polly married Asa Harlow and lived and died in Guilford; Judith became Mrs. Wright and lived in town; the boys sought their fortunes in the west.

The houses at the time (about 1813) were mostly log houses as boards were scarce and hard to obtain. The settlers were compelled to go to Foxcroft to get lumber sawed, and here it was a slow process at Spaulding's mills. The roofs were usually covered with long shingles of cedar, the chimneys also were built of rough stones and plastered with clay mortar. We find that when there were but few citizens in the town they held a town meeting, probably about 1808-9, and passed such rules and regulations as they wished to be governed by. These were fully as well obeyed as many of the laws of to-day with heavy penalties attached. This rule continued until 1813 when the settlers were organized into a plantation. Up to the time of incorporation which was in 1816, the town bore the name of Lowstown, but at that time the courts gave it the name of Guilford. The first boy born in town after the incorporation was named for the town, and is now living in the person of Guilford Low.

INDUSTRIAL AND MERCANTILE

In 1815 Robert Herring, Jr., Capt. J. Bennett and J. Kelsey built a saw mill in the northeast part of the town, on what has been called Salmon stream. This was the first industry started in town. This, however, was poorly built and was later abandoned; but the same privilege is now utilized by Ellis & Wise for the manufacture of lumber.

In 1824 Robert Herring, Jr. and S. & J.

Morgan built the first dam across the Piscataqua river at this point, and erected the first mill ever put up in the village. This was a mill for sawing lumber, and stood where the woolen mill now stands. The next to own this privilege were Hobart and Harris, the one running a saw mill and the other a short lumber mill. The present owners, the Piscataqua Woolen Co., were the next owners. They have a large brick mill and do a large manufacturing business. There are also two other mills on the river in Guilford village, the saw mill, and the box and short lumber mill, both owned by a company of citizens. In about 1825 Mr. A. Martin opened the first store in town on the lot where the Straw & Martin insurance office now is; some of the family have been in business of some sort here ever since that date. Monroe and Aldrich opened a second store here in about 1828. Monroe soon sold his share and later others bought the business. This store stood opposite Mr. A. Martin's store, where the new hotel now is. Later came Asa Warren and built on the corner where the hotel stands. Aldrich and Harris also did business at different times where Mr. Douglass is now located. J. K. Edes also came at an early date and built on the spot his sons now occupy.

PROFESSIONAL MEN

PHYSICIANS

In 1829 Jonathan Leighton commenced practice in town, but business was not very good with him as the settlers were, for the most part, very healthy. Later came A. Dunn, Dr. Clement, and S. Mudgett, C. B. Bennett, C. M. Hussey. R. H. Marsh, J. Butterfield, A. H. Harding, William Cowie are now practicing here.

LAWYERS.

In 1830 David R. Straw came from Sangerville to this town and opened an office. He lived here until his death. He left a son David R. Jr., who is now in practice. Henry Hudson was the next to come, also remaining until his death, and leaving a son, Henry Jr., to take his place. J. S. Williams and Jas. Hudson are also practicing law here.

MILITARY MATTERS

The early military history of this town is very similar to that of Sangerville. Its first military company was organized in 1818; William Stevens, William Webber, Leonard Howard, John H. Loring, John Monroe, Stephen Ellis, Wm. W. Lucas and Wm. Brown, serving the company as captains. Stephen Ellis was later made Major. In their musters and trainings they united with the companies of Sangerville. They were supplied with powder by the town for their practice, and had their headquarters at the same place as those of the neighboring town.

Two of the town's earliest citizens were veterans of the Revolutionary war. These were Consider Glass and Nathaniel Stevens.

Four of the citizens of this town were in the Mexican war, two of whom never returned. These enlistments were Stedman Davis, Jr., Joseph Young, Alexander Stevens and Sebastian Buck.

At the call for soldiers at the breaking out of the Civil War this town responded with many of her noblest sons. These men were found at the front in some of the fiercest battles of that long and bloody struggle, and many of them were left in the South, martyrs to the cause of Liberty and Union.

The following is an incomplete list of those who enlisted from this town; these we have compiled from the Maine Adjutant General's report: William Appleby, J. McBeath, Frank Babbitt, Frank Basset, R. B. Byram, Americus Crockett, E. O. Cole, E. T. Crockett, S. B. Crockett, D. S.

Cole, C. L. Cushman, Daniel Cole, S. B. Crockett, G. A. Drake, S. P. Davis, S. O. Davis, J. F. Drake, J. D. Edes, S. S. Ellis, H. S. Ellis, H. F. Ellis, J. G. Evans, M. F. Ellis, A. G. Graves, H. H. Glass, T. McD. Howard, H. E. Hatch, J. G. Herring, A. J. Herring, J. G. Harriman, Ruel Herring, J. W. Lombard, R. A. Littlefield, J. V. Maxfield, Stephen McElroy, J. H. McPherson, James McBeath, Joseph Murch, Peter McDonald, C. H. McGrath, A. H. Moran, David Owens, E. S. Pillsbury, G. F. H. Paul, F. B. Parkman, F. C. Rice, G. A. Robbins, John Rose, L. T. Rice, William Saunders, H. M. Stevens, Alonzo Stevens, H. H. Smith, C. W. Stearns, Chas. Stearns, B. E. Stearns, B. L. Trudy, C. W. True, E. M. Tucker, F. A. Tucker, John Wilson, J. C. Washburn, Lewis Weymouth, A. F. Wharff.

CHURCH HISTORY

The first record we find of any religious services was in 1808. At this time Deacon Herring came here, settled, and opened religious services. The next record we find was of settling a minister, Rev. Thomas Macomber, in about 1815-16, though some say that Elder Low, Robert Low's father, was the first minister in town. However, we find that the plantation invited Mr. Macomber to settle on the lot reserved for the first minister, who should serve them ten years. He accepted the call and remained for about twenty years. He was a Baptist minister and served the Baptist society, which was the first organization in town. The society was organized in 1812-13. The first religious services were held in a log house. The first church built in town was at Guilford Center, but the date cannot be stated definitely. After Thomas Macomber came L. Bradford in 1838; L. Kingman, 1843; E. Trask, 1846; A. J. Nelson, 1852; O. B. Walker, 1857-63; A. M. Piper, 1869-71; W. E. Noyes, 1871-74; S. Brown, 1875; J. F. Norris, 1878-85; W. C. Wiggin and J. S. Lane. This same parish has produced five ministers, Rev. Messrs. Bartlett, Hall, Herring, Nelson and Haskell.

ELM ST. M. E. CHURCH

The history of Elm St. Church dates back to a time when the Methodist minister was a circuit rider, and when the people in the new and thinly settled country were glad to have preaching services once in four or five weeks.

In the early records of East Maine Conference the name Guilford does not appear, but it was part of a circuit, extending from Bear Hill, in the town of Dover, to Greenville on Moosehead Lake.

But after a time the Society grew stronger, and the name of the circuit became Sangerville, Parkman, Guilford and Greenville, a pretty big field for one minister.

In 1872 the Society was incorporated, and the present church building on Elm street was erected. This corporation continued until 1891 when the church property was deeded to the Methodist Episcopal church, according to disciplinary usage, and the corporation was dissolved by vote of its members.

The name of the circuit became Guilford and Sangerville in 1874, and continued as such until 1900, when Sangerville beame a separate appointment.

The following pastors have served the church and circuit since 1860: Henry P. Blood, Otis Wilson, Nelson Whitney, John C. Prescott, Rufus Dixon, Selden Wentworth, Chas. E. Libby, Josiah Bean, W. B. Eldridge, James A. Morelen, W. T. Jewell, P. E. Brown, Elisha Skinner, J. T. Crosby, L. H. Massey, John Tinling, John Dana Payson, David B. Dow, J. Frank Haley and Isaac H. Lidstone.

In 1900 the parsonage on Elm street, opposite the church, was rebuilt, and is now a commodious and comfortable home for the pastor and his family.

Church membership 110.

Value church property $8,000.

SCHOOL ITEMS

During the plantation days of the town, and earlier, the only schools held were private, or paid by subscription. We believe Miss Betty Moore taught the first school of this nature, during one summer, followed by Robert Low, Jr., in the winter. These sessions were kept in Capt. Bennett's house. In 1817 Capt. Bennett's open shed was used for the first public school in the town.

In about 1818, as near as we can determine, was erected the first school building in town. The first school held here was taught by Mr. Low. This building served as town hall, meeting house and schoolhouse for some time after its construction. It was built of logs, and had an open fireplace. Its location was probably the same as that of the present school building at Guilford Center. The children were accustomed to bringing corn cake and potatoes for their dinner. About eleven o'clock the teachers would allow them to place their potatoes in the ashes to roast. This schoolhouse was burned in the big fire, about 1825.

We learn that the first schoolhouse erected in Guilford village was built near where the depot now stands. This was a frame building, but like the previously mentioned log structure, was a victim of the flames. After this was destroyed a second house was built on the same lot; this now forms a part of a tenement house in the village.

About 1880 the town hall was built, with accommodations for school rooms. Schools were kept here until the new schoolhouse was put up. At the present time the Primary grades meet in the town hall building.

The new $15,000 building was built in 1892 to accommodate the higher grades. This is a splendid modern schoolbuilding, and furnishes for the children of this town, combined with the excellent system of instruction, and other facilities, and its superior class of instructors, advantages of obtaining an education such as are surpassed by few towns of the size in the state.

BRIDGES

The first bridge across the river, against this town, was built by volunteer work and subscription, and opened to travel about 1821; the towns of Sangerville and Guilford sharing the expense equally. Two attempts were made however before a bridge deemed safe for travel was put up, the first being condemned. This was where the Sangerville bridge now spans the river. In 1832 this bridge was taken out by freshet, but rebuilt in 1835, and now does good service. The next bridge was built at Guilford village. This was also a subscription bridge, but was hardly completed when a freshet in 1830 (or 1829) took it out. It was soon voted however to raise $600 to rebuild it, Richard Loring taking charge of the work. This stood for about twenty-five years until, in 1855, the present bridge was completed.

At the time the Guilford village bridge went out in 1829 or 30, it was also voted to raise $600 to build one where the so called Low's bridge now is. This, however, was taken out in 1832, with the above mentioned Sangerville bridge. It was rebuilt however in 1835 and, taken out in 1856, or thereabouts. In 1857 the present covered bridge was placed there, Sangerville standing one-half the expense. This made the ninth bridge built across the Piscataquis at different times, Guilford standing the full expense of three and half of the other six.

EARLY SETTLEMENT

This township was purchased by Calvin Sanger as long ago as 1800, but we find that the first settler was Mr. Phineas Ames, from New Hampshire, who felled an opening here in 1802, and brought his wife and child here by spotted lines in the fall of 1803, he leading the horse on which his wife rode holding her son, Phineas, Jr., in her arms. He settled near what is now known as Low's corner, about three miles out of the village. Mr. Ames was also the first man to build a saw mill in the town. This was located on Black Stream, in the eastern part of the town. This mill was soon after purchased by Col Sanger.

The next settler was Jas. Weymouth, who came in 1804, and settled near Center Pond. Mr. Weymouth is said to have been a very powerful man, being able to carry twice or three times as much as an ordinary man, which was very convenient in those days, as horses and other power were scarce.

Jesse Brockway, who came about two weeks after Mr. Weymouth, was the third settler. He settled on what some call Pond's Hill, and by others is known as Flander's Hill. Mr. Brockway had a daughter born in 1805, the first in town and third in the county. Her name was Hannah, she married a Batcheldor.

We are led to believe that Mr. William Jackson was the next to come to town. He settled where Mr. D. A. Jackson now lives, and here raised his family. His son, Asa, lived on this place seventy years; the present occupant is the third in the line. The date of Mr. Jackson's arrival is not known, but it must have been previous to 1806. We learn that he helped make the first clearing, within the limits of what is now Sangerville village. This was made in 1812, where the Carlton mill is now located.

Mr. William Farnham was among the next to come. He settled on the south side of Pond's Hill, and soon started into the tanning business, the first in the county. We understand that he brought the first apple trees into town on his back, and with them planted the first orchard. In 1810 the census gives 126 population, among whom were Eben Stevens, Abel Levi, Solomon and William Oakes, and also Samuel Oakes, Walter Leland, Enoch Adams, Eleazer Woodward and the Carletons; many of whom had families. P. Ames, the time of whose arrival is mentioned, settled where Fred Douty now lives, near Lane's corner. In 1824 Moses Gilman came to what is now Gilman's corner.

INDUSTRIAL ACCOUNT

As is stated in another place, the first mill in the town was built on what is known as Black Stream, on the upper falls. This was a grist mill put up and operated by Phineas Ames. The mill was crude, though the fall was good, and mills now run well on it, this run slow. In 1810 Col. Sanger exchanged three lots with Mr. Ames for his mill and farm.

On the same stream, a little farther down, is another fall, which has been utilized for a saw and shingle mill. In 1817 Isiah Knowlton purchased both these privileges, which have remained in the possession of the family since then.

The main stream and source of power for the greater part of Sangerville industries, is the so called Carleton Stream, the outlet of Lake Manhanock. It has at least five good water privileges. The first one of these is not in use but at one time a shingle mill stood on this sight.

The next privilege was first utilized by a company of Sangerville's ambitious citizens. The date on which the company began operations here cannot be given definitely, but we do know that it was not a very good investment for those who built it. In about 1865 or so they leased the mill to Mr. Campbell, who later bought the entire stock for $14,000, thus obtaining what cost the original builders about $24,000. In 1885 this mill burned. Mr. Campbell sold out his interest to Messrs. Carr & Co., the present successful operators of the mill, which was constructed on the same locality. Four generations of the Carrs are now connected with it.

The next privilege, or third down the stream, is the one first utilized by the Carleton's. It was on this spot that the first clearing was made, and the first mill built in the village. Messrs. Carleton and Dudley here built a saw mill. Mr. Carleton then bought the whole, put a grist mill in, and sold the saw business to his brother Robert. He then put in a good carding machine. Later Augustus Williams put up a mill on the other side of the same dam, which afterward passed into the hands of the Carleton Woolen Co. The Mr. Carleton, who built the mill first mentioned, passed away in 1836, and Joseph Carleton took his place. This also passed into the Carleton Woolen Co., which is now the business name of the firm.

The next privilege is occupied by the Campbell Manufacturing Co. It was utilized by Mr. D. R. Campbell, who now lives in Guilford. He built here a woolen mill, becoming very successful in its operation. He did business under his own name, until his sons became old enough to enter the firm, when the present name was adopted.

The fifth is not now in use, but at one time was occupied by Thissell's shingle mill.

MILITARY MATTERS

The first movements made in this county toward defense was in the organization of military companies. The military trainings with arms, periodical musters, and other gatherings, which were times of unusual interest. The first company formed in the county was in Sebec, but other towns followed in quick succession; the one here being organized in 1817, when Robert Carlton was chosen captain. Among the others who held this office were Wm. Oakes, Jr., Aaron Morse, Isaiah Knowlton, Samuel Robey, John Douty, Jonathan Roberts and Daniel Spooner.

The first companies of this county were in the Fifth Maine Regiment, but in 1824 were re-organized into the Fifth Regiment, First Brigade, Third Division. They were furnished with 24 rounds of powder by the town, to be used at each training and muster until 1825.

In this regiment Sangerville furnished her share of the officers. Robert Carlton was made major and colonel; Capt. Oakes became a colonel; and Capt. Morse became major, lieutenant colonel, and colonel. These companies continued to train and muster until 1844, when the state abolished all military companies.

There were in this Sangerville company three Revolutionary soldiers, Aaron Rollins, G. Spooner, and Henry Leland. In the war of 1812, and in the Mexican war this town was well represented.

In the Rebellion this town furnished more than her quota of men. The following is a list of those who enlisted. This list we have compiled from the Adjutant General's report, but it will be found incomplete:

G. G. Ayer, S. B. Ayer, John Augustus, M. C. Bailey, O. W. Bridges, G. W. Brett, J. A. Bridges, Joshua Bridges, Jr., O. A. Brockway, John Boyle, D. A. Bridges, P. A. Bailey, J. M. Berry, W. S. CHURCHES

The first church built in town was the Baptist Church in Sangerville village. This was put up in about 1834. It was at first a union house, but very soon the Baptists bought it; however it was used the same as before, preaching continuing therein until recently. The Methodists wished to buy it, but a clear title could not be gotten, as the old board of directors who made the trade for it are dead, and but few Baptist's members remain. Now the church stands, little used, but a time honored monument to the zeal and piety of the town fathers.

EAST SANGERVILLE UNION CHURCH

The next church put up in town was at East Sangerville. It was put up in 1843 by a union of the three denominations, the Universalists, Congregationalists and Methodists, who previous to this time worshipped together in the schoolhouse. The first minister to speak in the church was Chas. Hussey, who delivered the dedicatory sermon. He was a Universalist. The first Methodist preacher was Mr. Soule, and Drake the first Congregationalist. These three denominations each had a minister, who preached every third Sunday. Later Robert Blacker and Rev. Mr. Barrett were among the ministers. Meetings are still held in the church, but no regular pastor is employed.

METHODIST CHURCH

The Sangerville Methodist Episcopal Church was formerly a part of the Sangerville, Parkman, Guilford and Greenville circuit, and later of the Guilford and Sangerville charge, until 1900, when Sangerville was made a separate appointment.

The Campbell Memorial M. E. Church was built in 1896-97; costing over $5,600. Previous to its erection services were held in the old Baptist church, together with the Universalists. The present membership of this society is 47. Since becoming a separate charge the pastors have been Albert Hartt, 1900-02; and Charles W. Wallace since 1902.

EDUCATIONAL

Concerning the first schools of this town we know but little. The first school was in one of the early settler's houses, but we are unable to learn whose. Some believe it was in either Mr. Weymouth's or Mr. Jackson's. The first schoolhouse built in town was near Lane's Corner, a little southeast of the present site. Lydia Newhall, Messrs. Sawtelle and Hurd were among the teachers here. Soon after this house was built, a second was built about one mile out of the village on the Dexter road.

The first schoolhouse built in the village stood where the present one now is, on the hill. It was a small red schoolhouse, with two rows of seats in the center, wide enough for six, two rows of wall seats for two pupils. It was converted into a dwelling house in 1844, and the present house put up on the same spot. This house was a two room schoolhouse at first, and later enlarged. Among those who taught in the little red schoolhouse we find John Griffin, V. A Sprague, a former resident of Dexter, Chas. Chandler and Sarah Hale. In the second schoolhouse we find Mary Burleigh of Dexter, J. Henry Moulton, Sarah Whitney, Benjamin Ames, Chas. Hussey.

The population of the towns of Guilford and Sangerville has been arranged herewith in families where that arrangement has been possible. In these families, in addition to the resident living members, the names of the non-resident members are included. At the end of the Census will be found the names of non-residents with their present addresses, when such addresses have been given to us. The non-residents are indicated by the (*).

EAST SANGERVILLE GRANGE

This Grange was organized June 24, 1875, as East Sangerville Grange, No. 177. There were 40 charter members. Algernon Howard was chosen first Master; Wm. Jackson, Overseer; and D. A. Jackson, Lecturer. There are now about 137 members in good standing. This is an energetic and a good working order. It has recently erected a new Grange Hall, which, when completed, will be a fine commodious building. The present officers are David A. Jackson, Master; J. A. Howard, Overseer; and S. A. Knowlton, Lecturer,

UNIVERSALIST CHURCH

SANGERVILLE.

Universalist services of worship were held in the Union Church in Sangerville prior to 1846. In that year Rev. Chas. Hussey was the acting minister. Services were held at more or less, regular intervals subsequent to that date, but not until the spring of 1890 under the pastorate of Rev. R. H. Aldrich was there any permanent organization undertaken, when the First Universalist Parish was organized with S. M. Gile, moderator; H. C. Ford, clerk; Chester Coburn, collector and E. W. McKechnie, Treas. The Parish continued jointly with the Methodists to use the Union Church until 1897, when the new Methodist Church having been built and a clear title to the Union Church being unobtainable they decided to build.

On May 18, 1897, the lot was purchased, and on June 15, a building committee composed of Rev. R. H. Aldrich, F. H. Carr and H. L. Thomas was elected and the church at once begun. The committee was faithful and painstaking as was Geo. L. Barrows, who acted as the collector of subscription and accountant. The first service was held in the church on Mar. 13, 1898, and it was dedicated June 7 of that year. The church is particularly well appointed and beautiful, a building Sangerville is proud to call the peer of any country church in the land. Its building and finally on March 20, 1904, its being cleared from debt was due to the especial munificence of Moses Carr, the venerable patron Saint of Universalism in the village, and to the loyalty and aid of many other individuals.

In 1900 Rev. R. H. Aldrich closed a pastorate of eleven years and was succeeded by Rev. A. M. Bradley who remained until April 1st, 1904. Rev. Harry Enos Rouillard is the present minister. The Parish is in a flourishing condition.
